COLUMBIA INSTITUTION FOR THE DEAF
Kendall Green, Washington 2, D.C.

GENERAL STATEMENT

The Columbia Institution for the Deaf was incorporated under act of Congress on February 16, 1857. Since that time, Congress has provided appropriations for its support on an annual basis, including funds for improvement of grounds and repairs and upkeep of buildings. It has also from time to time appropriated funds for the erection of new buildings. The Institution now comprises 25 buildings situated on a beautiful campus just 15 blocks from the Capitol of the United States.

The work of the Columbia Institution for the Deaf is devoted to the education of deaf students, whose hearing is so impaired that they are unable to progress satisfactorily in schools and colleges for hearing students. The Institution is composed of four departments, as follows: Kendall School, Gallaudet College, The Graduate Department of Education, and the Research Department. The aim of the Institution is to promote the welfare and advancement of deaf persons through various educational means and through research work.

Kendall School

This department is for the younger deaf children of the District of Columbia. The work of the Kendall School extends through all grades up to college entrance. The oral method of instruction is used in this department. However, there are children who cannot progress orally. We, therefore, are prepared to use any and all methods which will bring results. The hard of hearing children of the District are educated in day classes in the Public Schools of the city. Occasionally some of these pupils sent to us by the District authorities have some residual hearing. We have multiple hearing aids for these pupils to use.

New Buildings. Pursuant to a request from the Board of Education of the District of Columbia dated April 18, 1952, the Board of Directors of the Columbia Institution for the Deaf approved a request from Congress for funds for the construction of a one classroom and two dormitory group of buildings to be known as Kendall School, Division Two, to accommodate the colored deaf pupils of the District of Columbia. In May of 1952, Congress, in a supplementary appropriation, appropriated an initial $90,000.00 to start this project. There were nine local bidders on this job, the contract being awarded to Whalen and Purdy, Inc., of Washington, D. C., in the amount of $119,801. Architect's fees, steam mains, roadways and other necessary operations brought the total cost of construction up to $132,078.03. Subsequently, as a result of a further appropriation from Congress, there was received the sum of $41,000.00, making the Federal contribution to this project $131,000.00. The balance of costs amounting to $1,078.03 was borne by the Board of the Institution. Each dormitory building contains five dormitory rooms and part basement. The classroom building contains six classrooms with full basement, having dining hall and kitchen. Hot water, heated by steam from the central power plant provides heat in all buildings. Work was started on September 2, 1952 and completed on March 20, 1953.

Gallaudet College

This department of the Columbia Institution for the Deaf was established in 1864 by an act of Congress. It is for deaf students throughout the United States whose hearing loss is so great that they cannot succeed in colleges for hearing students. A liberal arts course is offered those who pass the entrance examinations. This past year students from 40 states, the District of Columbia, Canada, China, India, England, Hawaii, Norway, Sweden and Trans-Jordan were enrolled.

Gallaudet College requires of its students a preliminary, or preparatory year, so that assurance may be had that adequate high school work has been completed. Most of the entrants come directly from the state schools for the deaf throughout the country with an average of 11.7 school years.

The curriculum of the college is similar to that of any American college which offers four years of work towards a Bachelor's degree. Courses provide basic training in Home Economics, languages and literature, mathematics and science, the social sciences, the graphic arts, library science and training for a teaching career. Many of our graduates go into the teaching profession in the various schools for the deaf and have been very successful in this field.

A central point in the college program is the emphasis placed on the individual needs of each student. For this purpose the curriculum has been reorganized along lines, or areas, of concentration. When a student has completed the basic preliminary academic requirements in his first two years of the college proper, he is expected to decide upon the field of interest that bears greatest promise for his upperclass and post college career. The choice of his area of interest is determined to a large extent by advisory consultation with staff members of the faculty within the several areas. In this process of individual guidance use is made of a series of educational, personality and differential aptitude tests.

The methods of instruction in the college are determined by the needs of the courses. Usually the manual means of communication is used combined with the use of speech and lipreading. Few of these college students have any remnant of hearing left; acoustic aids are provided for those who do. Special instruction is provided in speech and lipreading. The college also has a visual aid department with expanding services.

Students show a decided interest in literature, particularly poetry. Their contributions have won high acclaim in literary contests in competition with students from other colleges and universities. A similar interest is shown in dramatics. The students produce and stage their own plays in the college auditorium.

The physical education program of the college stresses personal and community hygiene, intramural athletics, with participation also in inter-collegiate competition. The college is a member of the Mason-Dixon Conference, which is composed of 15 colleges and universities in this area. Competition includes basketball, football, wrestling, cross-country and track.

Graduate Department of Education

This department of the Institution, formerly known as the Normal Department, is for hearing young men and women who wish to teach the deaf. They must be graduates of accredited colleges before they may be admitted for this training course. This past year the enrollment in this department included 6 men and 4 women.

Research Department

This is a growing department and was originated to meet the demand of the schools for the deaf in the United States for some central point where research work could be carried on for the advancement of the education of the deaf in this nation.

During the last year systematic psychological testing of the students of the college has been continued. This program includes the use of a series of standardized tests with different college classes, beginning with an achievement and personality test for all students entering the Preparatory Class; for the students of the Freshman Class, the American Council on Education Psychological Examination for College Freshmen; and the National Cooperative College Sophomore Tests at the close of the Sophomore year. In the past year, also, was continued a series of tests, namely the Differential Aptitude Tests prepared by the Psychological Corporation. This series, given to the students of the Preparatory and Freshman classes, offers guiding material as to their individual aptitudes.

ATTENDANCE

During the fiscal year July 1, 1952, through June 30, 1953, there were under instruction in the advanced department of the Institution 132 men and 109 women, a total of 241, representing 10 states, the District of Columbia, Canada, China, India, Norway, Sweden, England, Hawaii and Trans-Jordan. This is an increase of 26 as compared with the preceding year.

In the Kendall School there were under instruction 59 boys and 30 girls, a total of 89. This is an increase of 18 as compared with the preceding year.

Of the total in the Institution, 67 were admitted as beneficiaries of the District of Columbia.

There were admitted to the Institution 38 males and 37 females; discharged 18 males and 20 females.

Health

The Director of the Health Department is a registered nurse, residing on the campus. Despite considerable influenza, which was prevalent throughout the Washington area during the early spring, absences from classes were kept at a minimum. Dr. Frances Foye who served the women's department for many years, passed away during mid-term. Dr. Richard H. Todd, in charge of the men's department, took over Dr. Foye's work for the balance of the school year. Other specialists were called on for emergencies. Tuberculosis x-rays are given all new students and new employees. Parents are expected to take care of hospital and medical expenses off the campus. A full time dietitian has charge of all dining rooms and kitchen, insuring balanced diets for the students and resident staff at all times.
